Charitable Giving a Priority at MetPlas This Holiday Season

Natrona Heights, PA - With the understanding that the Holidays can be a time of distress for several families, MetPlas has teamed-up with the Salvation Army to deliver gifts to those families in need through the "Adopt-A-Family" program. Two Christmas trees were erected at MetPlas with ornaments bearing the names of three distressed families and their desired gifts for each family member. Those gifts included anything from a pair of shoes for a young girl to a warm winter jacket for a father. MetPlas employees were able to collect over 100 gifts for the three families in addition to Giant Eagle gift cards to help with each family's Christmas dinner.

"Contributing to the "Adopt-A-Family" program not only benefits the recipients of these gifts, but it also allows us to come together as a group to achieve a common goal of helping others" commented Russ Garrett, Senior VP and GM at MetPlas.

Russ went on to say "Charitable giving will continue to be a priority at MetPlas in 2013. We can have a significant impact when we combine our efforts as a group. Its all about teamwork."
